LATEST FLIGHT OF AEROPLANE

Calais, France, May 21.—Count Jacques De Lesseps, the French aviator, started at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon on a double flight across the English channel. He reached the English side successfully and was expected to make the return trip at once.

The weather was magnificent when the aeroplane rose from the ground for its daring trip.

Rising, the count took his machine in a wide circle over the cliffs and then headed straight for Dover. In fifteen minutes he had disappeared from view. De Lesseps used a 50-horsepower monoplane called "Scarabee." He ascended from the point at which Louis Bleriot started on his cross-channel flight last July, and rose gradually to an altitude of 1,600 feet, at which height he was traveling when he was lost to view in a light hour. The torpedo boat destroyer Copette followed in the wake of the flying craft.

Louis Bleriot, the French aviator, crossed the English channel in an aeroplane on the morning of July 25th last. His unprecedented feat had been matched up to today. Hubert Latham made an unsuccessful flight on July 25th. Latham fell with his machine into the water, but was rescued. Later Count De Lambert prepared for such a flight, but his machine broke down before he had cleared the cliffs. Count de Lesseps had planned to attempt the flight last Saturday, but postponed the event because of the death of King Edward.

GRADUATES OF THE SUB-HIGH

Adams of the sub-high school states that the result of the eighth grade work in the city schools this year is in advance of that of former years, due to the fact that the students of that grade of all ages of the city were brought together and taught under the most favorable circumstances possible. The plan of separating the eighth grade students from the others and giving them a sub-high course has proved to be a marked improvement over the old system, and there is little question in the minds of the pedagogues that it will be perpetuated in the Ogden schools.

ARE ROUNDING UP BAD CHARACTERS

This being a time of year when the lighthearts of the road, yegg men, petty thieves, robbers, holdups, vagabonds and confidence men are on their way, playing their nefarious work, Detective Pender states that a complete rounding up of loitering transients will be prosecuted during the next few days and nights.

The detective states that he is certain that a great deal of crime can be avoided by getting hold of suspicious characters before they commit crime, and forcing them to either give a satisfactory account of themselves or leave the city. All rooming houses are to be visited by the officers to see whether registers giving the names of parties stopping at them are kept, and to determine, as near as possible, the character of people stopping at them.

A roundup was had last night and more than a half dozen "undesirables" were taken to the police station. The suspected were given their "walking papers" this morning by Judge Murphy.

SPEAKERS LAUD W. J. BRYAN

New York, May 20.—"Uncontaminated soul," "illustrious, peerless philosopher," and "pure-minded advocate of the people," were a few of the descriptive phrases applied to William J. Bryan tonight by the speakers who preceded him at a dinner given in his honor by the Speakers' club.

Mr. Bryan confined his remarks to his subject of "What Constitutes a Good Speaker."

"I can claim to be a public speaker," he said with a suggestion of a smile, "if you take quantity rather than quality. It is safe to say I have talked as much as any one for the opportunity I've had."

"I've heard chairman introduce me," continued Mr. Bryan, "like this: 'We have with great effort persuaded Mr. Bryan to speak.'"

"They didn't know me."

"I believe in public speaking. I am glad to help to make more public speeches. For, in proportion, as a government is a popular government, just in that proportion should every citizen have the ability to speak."

TIMBER IN THE KAIBAB FOREST

Foresters C. M. Butler and Lincoln Grow have returned from southern Utah, where they have been employed during the past two months assisting in the work of surveying the Kaibab forest in the Buckskin mountains.

The gentlemen state that the survey is progressing rapidly and that a plat of the entire forest will be prepared for the use of the government by September 1st, and that at that time the government will be in position to state to bidders for timber in that section just how much and what kind of timber is for sale.

It has been estimated that there are something like 3,800,000,000 feet of timber fit for sawing that the government could profitably dispose of to parties who would build a railroad into that country, but Mr. Butler states that it is more than likely that there are not more than 2,500,000,000 feet that could be used in making lumber.

The surveying and platting of the country has already progressed to such an extent, says District Forester E. A. Sherman, as to enable the government to give accurate information regarding certain parts of the forest, and that timber in those sections can be sold at any time. Those projecting railroads into countries of that kind ask a purchase of timber amounting to at least 500,000,000 feet, but it is questionable whether the government will sell more than 250,000,000 feet to a single corporation.

The forest service officers are of the opinion, however, that it would be well for Uncle Sam to sell 500,000,000 feet of the timber of the Kaibab forest if it would be the means of inducing the building of a railroad into that section of country, but it is a grave question whether officers higher up having the matter in hand will consent to so large a sale. This may be the means of delaying the extension of a railroad.

A road is now contemplated to extend from Lund, on the San Pedro route, through Cedar City, the Dixie country, the forest section and as far as the grand gorge of the Colorado river in Arizona.
